WHAT BILL C-32 Misses:
Copyright in Academic Life...

What is the difference between Copyright and Plagiarism?

COPYRIGHT is a legislated set of rights;

PLAGIARISM is a question of literary and cultural norms:

Certain institutions and groups, using contract law, can make plagiarism a wrong for which a person can be sanctioned. For example, at UWO, as at other post-secondary institutions, plagiarism exists as an “academic offence”:

Vis-à-vis students, it has been declared by Senate as an offence and enforced under the terms of the contract between the student and the university;

Vis-à-vis faculty, it was negotiated as an academic norm by the faculty union, The University of Western Ontario Faculty Association (UWOFA), and the University and is defined in the Collective Agreement and enforced by the University against faculty members through the disciplinary process created in the Agreement.

Other than in such special arrangements, plagiarism that does not amount to copyright or moral rights infringement is not actionable in law in Canada.
Recall the basic rights given copyright holders under the Copyright Act:

Licenses and Permissions

It is the copyright holder’s prerogative

(a) to decide whether or not to grant permission (a license) to a requestor to make any particular use of a work (or other subject matter); and

(b) if granting permission, to charge or not charge for that permission.

The charge for making use of materials is generally termed the TARIFF if it is an amount established by the Copyright Board of Canada in a situation involving a blanket license obtained from a copyright collective organization or a ROYALTY where an individual license is concerned.

Licenses under the Copyright Act are required to be in writing (s.13(4)) and so it is best to get all permissions in writing.

If you use a work without obtaining permission – or without obtaining permission from the correct rightsholder – you are using the work AT RISK of a suit for copyright infringement.

Merely acknowledging source and author may satisfy the moral rights requirements of the Copyright Act but does not provide a defense to a lawsuit for copyright infringement.
Remember that the moral rights are separate from the economic rights in WORKS and non-transferable and therefore cannot be exercised by anyone other than the original author...

In Canada, the author of a work has a right:

- to the integrity of the work (i.e. to prevent the work from being distorted, mutilated or otherwise modified to the prejudice of the honour or reputation of the author)

- where reasonable in the circumstances, to be associated with the work as its author by name or under a pseudonym (as well as the right to remain anonymous) [often referred to as the right to paternity]

- to prevent the work from being used in association with a product, service, cause or institution to the prejudice of the honour or reputation of the author [commonly referred to as the right of association].

• IF PASSED, Bill C-32 will give moral rights to performers (as well as the economic rights they were given in the 1997 amendments)

• Not transferable… licensing not an option.
Parliament –
Bill C-32 The Copyright Modernization Act
Introduced Tuesday, June 2, 2010…

The Copyright Board –
4 tariff proceedings are in play, at various stages, and one of them directly involves post-secondary institutions…

The Federal Court of Appeal –
1 of the 4 tariff proceedings was decided by the Copyright Board and has been judicially reviewed by this court… and that decision is now being appealed to the Supreme Court of Canada

These three copyright policy - developing areas are interrelated…
Parliament’s tightrope in Bill C-32:

If it broaden users’ rights too much?

TRIPS and other agreements Canada has signed privilege copyright holders over users:

Members [states] shall confine limitation or exceptions to exclusive rights

To certain special cases which do not conflict with a normal exploitation of the work
  And do not unreasonably prejudice the legitimate interests of the right holder

(the “3 step” test)

If it narrows users’ rights too much?

The SCC, beginning some years ago in the Theberge case, and continuing forward to the 2004 decision in the Law Society case, has spoken of users’ rights needing to be respected as well as those rights created under the copyright regime for copyright holders.

Such “rights” language may be interpreted as invoking the protection of the Charter value of freedom of expression (s.2(b)) – Parliamentary attempts to extend the rights of copyright holders might be found to be unconstitutional.

Canada has not had a decision like the American’s SC in Eldred v. Ashcroft (2003) – and the outcome here could well be different…
If you are doing something only the copyright holder has a right to do – and you do not have a “user’s right” under the Copyright Act to do it – then the following terms become relevant:

Assignment
License
Royalty
License fee
Tariff

Permission

IF YOU DO HAVE A USER’S RIGHT, THEN YOU DO NOT NEED PERMISSION – And none of those terms are relevant --

What recent processes before the Copyright Board presage the current academic situation?

1. In the education sector,

   - School boards everywhere except in Quebec are now being affected by the decision of AccessCopyright to take the Ministers of Education to the Board for a Tariff for 2010-2012
   - Universities and Colleges are affected by the recent decision by AccessCopyright to abandon individual negotiations with universities (or with an organization representing them) and to apply instead for a Tariff before the Board.

2. In the government sector, AccessCopyright has applied to impose a Tariff for 2005-2009 and another for 2010-2012 to the Provincial and Territorial governments…
Collectives have long existed in the music industry --

Canadian Performing Rights Society 1926

1935 – Copyright Appeal Board created for these rights

Composers Authors & Publishers Association of Canada CAPAC 1946

BMI Canada 1940

PROCAN 1978

1988 - Copyright Act amendments

SOCAN 1990

A Collective is, generally, a voluntary organization that represents the holders of a particular economic copyright in terms of the administration and enforcement of selected rights associated with that copyright.

Music performing collectives
- SOCAN

Retransmission collecting bodies
- SOCAN (also)

Other reproduction collectives
- CMRRA (mechanical reproductions of music)
- CANCOPY and COPIBEC (successor to UNEQ) - reproduction rights only
The Copyright Board website lists more than 30 collectives --

The following are involved in rights management associated with "works" under s.3:

1. Access Copyright
2. ACF – Audio Cine Films
3. AVLA – Audio-Video Licensing Agency
4. CARCC – Canadian Artists’ Representation Copyright Collective
5. CBRA – Canadian Broadcasters Rights Agency
6. CMRRA – Canadian Musical Reproduction Rights Agency
7. Criterion Pictures
8. COPIBEC – Societe quebeciose de gestion collective des droits de reproduction
9. CRC – Canadian Retransmission Collective
10. CRRA – Canadian Retransmission Right Association
11. ERCC – Education Rights Collective of Canada
12. FWS – FWS Join Sports Claimants
13. MLB – Major League Baseball Collective of Canada
14. PGC – Playwrights Guild of Canada
15. SOCAN – Society of Composers, Authors and Music Publishers of Canada
16. SACD – Societe des auteurs et compositeurs dramatiques
17. SODRAC – Society for Reproduction Rights of Authors, Composers and Publishers in Canada
18. SOPROQ – Societe de gestion collective des droits des producteurs de phonogrammes et videogrammes du Quebec
19. SoQAD – Societe quebecoise des auteurs dramatiques

Not, of course, forgetting the role of the provincial courts and Federal Court in adjudicating infringement actions under the Act, and the Federal Court (trial and appeal levels) in adjudicating disputes under the Act involving registration, and sitting on review of these administrative tribunals, all determining rights created under the Act.
The Copyright Board’s formula for setting tariffs:

• Take all copying done within the institution
  (determined by actual surveying, using statistically robust sampling)

• Subtract all copies for which the rightsholders should not be compensated
  (a) because the materials in question were not “works” or works in which the rightsholders in the collective have rights (eg materials created by schools for themselves, in which they hold copyright)

  AND

  (b) because although the materials in question are prima facie materials in which the collectives’ members have rights, there are users’ rights (exceptions) which mean the rightsholders are not exercise their rights for these uses (fair dealing, rights for educational institutions or LAMs)

SUB- TOTAL:  NUMBER OF COMPENSABLE COPIES

\[ \times \text{ the value of each copy as determined on economic evidence by the Copyright Board} \]

EQUALS THE AMOUNT OF THE TARIFF EACH INSTITUTION IS TO PAY TO THE COLLECTIVE
“subtract” materials that are not works and are not protected by copyright -

- the Act only protects substantial portions or the whole of original expressions -

  Unfortunately, what constitutes a substantial portion of a work is, in Canada, a qualitative test and therefore difficult to determine with certainty

- And the Act only protects works and other subject matter for specified lengths of time; generally for works, the life of the author + 50 years, and for other subject matter, generally, for 50 years… so, older works are not in copyright.
If passed, Bill C-32 will give the same protections to photographs as are now given to every other work under the Copyright Act – for the same period of life of the photographer + 50 years...

And, in general, ownership will lie with the photographer – but for certain private uses, a commissioning person will still have rights...
“subtract” activities performed by users and intermediaries, such as librarians, that do not ever come into the realm of copyright holders’ rights...

- Purchasing individual copies of materials from commercial publishers, to use or distribute to clients is fine

- Traditional ways of using and disseminating knowledge by looking it up and then re-expressing it in your own words is fine

Reading is not a use included in the copyright holders’ bundle of rights;

Borrowing is not a use traditionally included in the copyright holders’ bundle… (although that bundle does now include rentals of sound recordings and computer programs)

What is Access Copyright proposing for the 2010-2012 tariff?

Tariff fee proposed is $15.00/FTE student—up from the $5.16/FTE student appealed to the Federal Court of Canada and to be adjusted slightly by remission back to the Board on the question of whether exam copying was actually not available in a medium that is appropriate for the purpose and thus not compensable (which would reduce the tariff now payable of $5.16 a bit

(but note enlarged scope of “product” AccessCopyright is offering in the 2010-2012 tariff for schools)

Canadian Ministers of Education (CMEC) has indicated its intention to oppose...

Access Copyright has not sought a hearing date with the Copyright Board to pursue this new tariff...
Proposed fee is $24.00/FTE civil servant
Coverage of the proposed Tariff is similar to Schools Tariff

Presumably AccessCopyright expects less government copying to be identified as non-compensable because of the users’ rights in the Act (the difference between seeking $15/student and $24/civil servant)

The Copyright Board has set this tariff for hearing September 13, 2011…
What is happening between AccessCopyright and Post-secondary Institutions?

• Back this past Winter, Access Copyright was writing to each college and university directly (since the actual signed licenses in place are individual to each institution and Access Copyright) giving individual notices of its intention to terminate the existing licenses and begin negotiations anew.

• These letters mentioned that the new license terms and conditions might be created either by agreement of the parties (that is, Access Copyright and the university or college to whom the letter was addressed) OR by the Copyright Board…

• But, at any time, a collective CAN apply to the Board if the amount to be paid by a copyright user and a copyright owner cannot be agreed between them (s.70.2) … and Access Copyright has decided now to abandon negotiation for licenses with individual universities and has now applied to the Board for a Tariff (as it has now done, as we have seen, for schools).
What is AccessCopyright’s proposed Tariff for Post-Secondary institutions for 2005-2009?

On March 30th, 2010, Access Copyright filed a proposal with the Copyright Board of Canada for a tariff for reproductions for course packs and day-to-day photocopying for Post-Secondary Educational Institutions.

Unlike the 2005-2009 School Tariff, the proposed post-secondary tariff would include both print and digital works in its repertoire.

The proposed tariff is $45.00/FTE – presumably the difference AccessCopyright expects between the value of print and print to digital in the education and civil service tariffs and print and digital in this one for universities and colleges.

The proposed tariff is posted to the Copyright Board of Canada website.

The Association of Universities and Colleges of Canada (AUCC), authorized by the individual institutions, wrote opposing (July 15, 2010) – other university-related organizations have written opposing (such as the Canadian Association of University Teachers (CAUT), although it does not represent institutions on which the tariff would be levied).
How might these future Tariff proceedings before the Board be affected by Bill C-32 if it passes?

2011-2013 Post-Secondary Tariff as Proposed for $45/FTE

- Copies of works available digitally added beyond what the K-12 2005-2009 Tariff covers
- Digital copies of paper works added beyond what the K-12 2005-2009 Tariff covers

The Supreme Court has said:
“It is only if a library were unable to make out the fair dealing exception under section 29 that it would need to turn to the Copyright Act to prove that it qualified for the library exception.” (LSUC case)

And reproduction for private purposes – without circumventing Technological Protection Measures (s.29.22)

And time-shifting (s.29.23)

And back-up copies (s.29.24)
Technological Protection Measures (TPMs) are given legal sanction by Bill C-32

BUT NOT IF THEY INTERFERE WITH

- Interoperability
- personal data protection or privacy rights
- Access needs because of perceptual disability

AND

- Libraries which are LAMs and Educations Institutions (as defined) have special defence provisions with respect to the TPM sections

Note: the definition of “Libraries, Archives and Museums” (LAMs) is not changed by Bill C-32 and therefore, to the extent that Bill C-32 provides privileges to LAMs it further divides libraries amongst themselves -- those who are owned by for profit entities (most special libraries and some educational institution’s libraries, for example) will not have access to the increased exemptions of their LAMs colleagues… and, similarly, for “educational institutions”
If Fair Dealing Users’ Rights are enlarged and if Educational and LAMs Exceptions are expanded?

Again, what AccessCopyright is asking from Post-Secondary Institutions…

… and how Bill C-32 might change the equation.

- All copies made
- No rights
- Compensable copies
- Users’ Rights exempt for these uses
But recall that Bill C-32 is silent on collectives...

In the licenses negotiated by universities and colleges with AccessCopyright (without the intervention of the Copyright Board tariff process), there were typically 2 important clauses:

1. There was a recital at the beginning that Access Copyright and the institution signing the agreement agreed to disagree on the extent of fair dealing...

   And

2. There was an indemnification clause under which Access Copyright agreed to compensate the college or university if a copyright holder who was not a member of Access Copyright successfully sued the institution (because such a copyright holder would not be covered by the license).

   Neither of these clauses can appear in a tariff created by the Copyright Board – and so they don’t...
But recall that Bill C-32 is silent on collectives...

To give colleges and universities the protection under tariffs that they had negotiated under the earlier licenses, the Copyright Act would have to be changed

1. To say that contracts cannot override fair dealing rights

   And

2. Where a collective exists, it represents that class of rightsholders on a worldwide basis unless the rightsholder specifically opts out (the extended repertoire or extended licensing system)

   Bill C-32 proposed neither of these changes to the Copyright Act...
Thank You
