(a) No Remarks

(b) For the second time in 8 years the roof was taken off the Lake Views Hotel. A number of other substantial structures were badly damaged including the grist mill and court house. The family of A.G. Brown were at dinner when the roof of their residence was completely taken off. Through the hole over the table there tumbled a ton of bricks and mortar just as the family left the room.

STRUCK BY CYCLONE.

MUCH DAMAGE WROUGHT AT AMHERSTBURG ONTARIO.

LAKEVIEW HOTEL UNROOFED, LIME KILN RANGE LIGHTS DESTROYED, COURT HOUSE PARTLY WRECKED AND MUCH OTHER DAMAGE DONE.

G.N.W. PRESS DESPATCH.

~~AMHER~~ AMHERSTBURG MAY 26TH. A cyclone struck this town shortly after 12 o'clock noon today, raged for nearly an hour, and left a trail of ruin in its wake when all was over. No one was killed so far as can be ascertained, and it is announced that no one has been injured to any serious extent.

The most serious damage is to the Lake View Hotel, the roof of which was whipped off and carried a clattering sheet of shingles for some distance before it fell to the ground. Vessel interests will also suffer considerably, as the range lights to guide the boats through the Limekilns have been blown down. The lights destroyed are those located at the Michigan Central tracks.

The tall smokestack of the Electric Light & Power Company was toppled over, the grist mill was badly damaged, and the court house was partially wrecked. The storm came from the northwest, and was ~~preceded~~ preceded by very little warning. The fact that there was no loss of life on the river is due solely to luck, there being no pleasure parties out in small boats, at the time.

Trees were uprooted, telegraph wires were blown down, and for some time the railway service from Windsor and Sandwich was stopped.

THE GLOBE SAT MAY 28TH 1904. AMHERSTBURG CYCLONE.

LOSS ESTIMATED AT ~~25,000~~ $25,000.

NARROW ESCAPE OF THE FAMILY OF MR. A. G. BROWN OF THE ELECTRIC LIGHT PLANT

NO LIVES LOST.

G. N. W. PRESS DESPATCH.

AMHERSTBURG MAY ~~26TH~~ 27TH. The property damaged by yesterday's cyclone is estimated at about $25,000. The wind struck the town when most of the people were at their mid day meal, and owing to the fortunate circumstance no one was killed or injured by flying debris. The area of the storm was three miles wide, and it came sweeping up the river, one wing over a part of the lower end of Bois Blanc Island, while the other swept everything before it on the mainland. The roof was completely taken off a building, the upper storey of which is occupied by the family of A. G. Brown chief engineer of the electric light plant. The family were at dinner, and with the first gust Mrs. Brown requested them to leave the table. They did so, not a moment too soon, as a great hole was made in the roof over the table, and nearly a ton of bricks and mortar tumbled through the opening on the floor and the table as the last child left the room.
